Why do I need thickened fluids?

- Some very thin liquids, such as water, tea and coffee, flow very quickly
- The muscles around your mouth and throat may have become slower and weaker than usual
- This can increase the chance of drinks going down the wrong way and making you cough
- Thicker fluids move much slower, giving the muscles more time to work and makes it easier for drinks to go down the right way.

How do I thicken my drinks?

- FIRST put powder into a DRY cup/glass/beaker.
- THEN add fluid (make tea/coffee separately first, then add it to the powder).
- STIR continuously until powder is completely dissolved.
- CHECK the consistency is correct (see over). Water, tea and coffee will thicken in one minute, juices and milk may require a few minutes.

- Your SLT recommends your drinks need to be thickened to an IDDSI Level 3 moderately thick fluid consistency
- Check the back of your tin of thickening powder for the number of scoops needed to thicken your drink to an IDDSI Level 3 consistency

Hints for successful thickening

- Make your tea/coffee, THEN add the drink to the powder in a dry cup/glass/beaker
- Thickened fruit juice or squash is much more palatable than thickened water
- Be aware that hot drinks tend to continue to thicken as they cool

What if I run out of powder?

Your GP will provide you with a prescription for thickener.

The canister should be discarded on the best before date on the tin and/or within 8 weeks of opening.
